

The Battle for Your Mind

Hi-tech brainwashing & your TV

In the entire history of humanity, no one has ever been brainwashed and realised, or believed, that they had been brainwashed!

MASS MISUSE

I could relate many stories that support subliminal programming, (refer to last issue of Nexus) but I'd rather use my time to make you aware of even more subtle uses of such programming.

I have personally experienced sitting in a Las Angeles auditorium with over ten thousand people who were gathered to listen to a current charismatic figure. Twenty minutes after entering the auditorium, I became aware that I was going in and out of an altered state. Those accompanying me experienced the same thing.

Since it is our business, we were aware of what was happening, but those around us were not. By careful observation, what appeared to be spontaneous demonstrations were, in fact, artful manipulations. The only way I could figure that the eyes-open trance had been induced was that a 6 to 7 cycle per second vibration was being piped into the room behind the air conditioner sound.

That particular vibration generates alpha, which would render the audience highly susceptible. Ten to 25% of the population is capable of a somnabulistic level of altered states of consciousness; for these people, the suggestions of the speaker, if non-threatening, could potentially be accepted as "commands."

VIBRATO

This leads to the mention of VIBRATO. Vibrato is the tremulous effect imparted in some vocal or instrumental music, and the cycle per second range causes people to go into an altered state of consciousness.

At one period of English history, singers whose voices contained pronounced vibrato were not allowed to perform publicly because listeners would go into an altered state and have fantasies, often sexual in nature. People who attend or enjoy listening to singers like Mario Lanza are familiar with this altered state induced by the performers.

ELF's

Now, let's carry this awareness a little further. There are also inaudible ELF's (extra-low frequency waves). These are electromagnetic in nature. One of the primary uses of ELF's is to communicate with our submarines. Dr Andrija Puharich, a highly respected researcher, in an attempt to warn US officials about Russian use of ELF's, set up an experiment. Volunteers were wired so their brainwaves could be measured on an EEG. They were sealed in a metal room that could not be penetrated by a normal signal.

Puharich then beamed ELF waves at the volunteers. ELF's go right through the earth and, of course, right through metal walls. Those inside couldn't know if the signal was or was not being sent. And Puharich watched the reactions on the technical equipment: 30% of those inside the room were taken over by the ELF signal in 6 to 10 seconds.

When I say "taken over", I mean that their behaviour followed the changes anticipated at very precise frequencies. Waves below 6 cycles per second caused the subjects to become very emotionally upset, and even disrupted bodily functions. At 8.2 cycles, they felt very high ... an elevated feeling, as though they had been in masterful meditation, learned over a period of years. 11 to 11.3 cycles induced waves of depressed agitation leading to riotous behaviour.

THE NEUROPHONE

Dr Patrick Flanagan is a personal friend of mine. In the early 1960s, as a teenager, Pat was listed as one of the top scientists in the world by "Life Magazine". Among his many inventions was a device he called the Neurophone - an electronic instrument that can successfully program suggestions directly through contact with the skin. When he attempted to patent the device, the government demanded that he prove it worked. When he did, the National Security Agency (NSA) confiscated the neurophone. It took Pat two years of legal battle to get his invention back.

In using the device, you don't hear or see a thing; it is applied to the skin, which Pat claims is the source of special senses. The skin contains more sensors for heat, touch, pain, vibration, and electrical fields than any other part of the human anatomy.

In one of his recent tests, Pat conducted two identical seminars for a military audience - one seminar one night and one the next night, because the size of the room was not large enough to accommodate all of them at one time. When the first group proved to be very cool and unwilling to respond, Patrick spent the next day making a special tape to play at the second seminar. The tape instructed the audience to be extremely warm and responsive and for their hands to become "tingly". The tape was played through the neurophone, which was connected to a wire he placed along the ceiling of the room. There were no speakers, so no sound could be heard, yet the message was successfully transmitted from that wire directly into the brains of the audience. They were warm and receptive, their hands tingled and they responded, and according to programming, in other ways that I cannot mention here.

The more we find out about how human beings work through today's highly advanced technological research, the more we learn to control human beings. And what probably scares me the most is that the medium for takeover is already in place! The television set in your living room and bedroom is doing a lot more than just entertaining you.

Before I continue, let me point out something else about an altered state of consciousness. When you go into an altered state, you transfer into right brain, which results in the internal release of the body's own opiates: enkephalins and Beta-endorphins, chemically almost identical to opium. In other words, it feels good ... and you want to come back for more.

Recent tests by researcher Herbert Krugman showed that, while viewers were watching TV, right-brain activity outnumbered left-brain activity by a ratio of two to one. Put more simply, the viewers were in an altered state... in trance more often than not. They were getting their Beta-endorphin "fix".

To measure attention spans, psychophysiological Thomas Mulholland of the Veterans Hospital in Bedford, Massachusetts, attached young viewers to an EEG machine that was wired to shut the TV set off whenever the children's brains produced a majority of alpha waves. Although the children were told to concentrate, only a few could keep the set on for more than 30 seconds!

Most viewers are already hypnotised. To deepen the trance is easy. One simple way is to place a blank, black frame every 32 frames in the film that is being projected. This creates a 45 beat-per-minute pulsation perceived only by the subconscious mind - the ideal pace to generate deep hypnosis.

The commercials or suggestions presented following this alpha-inducing broadcast are much more likely to be accepted by the viewer. The high percentage of the viewing audience that has somnambulistic-depth ability could very well accept the suggestions as commands - as long as those commands did not ask the viewer to do something contrary to his morals, religion, or self-preservation.

The medium for takeover is here. By the age of 16, children have spent 10,000 to 15,000 hours watching TV - that is more time than they spend in school! In the average home, the TV set is on for six hours and 44 minutes per day - an increase of nine minutes from last year and three times the average rate of increase during the 1970's.

From a talk delivered by Dick Sutphen at the World's Congress of Professional Hypnotists Convention, Las Vegas, USA.

..what probably scares me the most is that the medium for takeover is already in place....
the television set!

It obviously isn't getting better ... we are rapidly moving into an alpha-level world - very possibly the Orwellian world of "1984" - placid, glassy-eyed, and responding obediently to instructions.

A research project by Jacob Jacoby, a Purdue University psychologist, found that of 2,700 people tested, 90% misunderstood even such simple viewing fare as commercials and "Barnaby Jones." Only minutes after watching, the typical viewer missed 23 to 36% of the questions about what he or she had seen. Of course they did - they were going in and out of trance! If you go into a deep trance, you must be instructed to remember - otherwise you automatically forget.

I have just touched the tip of the iceberg. When you start to combine subliminal messages behind the music, subliminal visuals, projected on the screen, hypnotically produced visual effects, sustained musical beats at a trance-inducing pace ... you have extremely effective brainwashing. Every hour that you spend watching the TV set you become more conditioned. and, in case you thought there was a law against any of these things, guess again. There isn't! There are a lot of powerful people who obviously prefer things exactly the way they are.

Maybe they have plans for you?

The people here are non-aggressive and suffer from severe incontinence
